

Statement on Professional Education

The Florida Library Association upholds the Master's degree in library and information studies from a program accredited by the American Library Association as the minimum standard for librarians and library directors. Additional degrees, training, and experience also benefit a strong and diverse program of library services.

Approved by the Executive Board
March 23, 2012